Mandela’s legacy teaches everyone to choose dignity over humiliation, speak up during injustice, and forgive rather than hate. Ba-Phalaborwa Municipality mayor Cllr Mariam Malatji expressed gratitude to the CEO of Bora Mining Services, Enock Mathebula. “We are really grateful because every time we knock at your door, you don’t hesitate, you always assist us. May God richly bless the company to grow bigger,” Malatji said.

The honourable mayor further mentioned that Cyril sent his request last year but due to a long list of wheelchair requests, and it not being part of their social responsibility it was difficult to reach his request but at the end they finally assisted.

The mayor donated groceries to the family and she mentioned that greater things are still yet to happen.

Mlondobozi could not hide his joy and he kept saying God is good. He says the wheelchair could not have come at a better time. “I have longed for this day to come. I can confidently confess that this is the best thing that has ever happened to me and it came at a special time when we celebrate the late father of the nation’s birthday. I am truly grateful to the mayor Mme Mariam and Bora Mining,” Mlondobozi said gleefully.

Mlondobozi has been paralysed for seven years now, he says life will now change for the better. The official handover was done at Mlondobozi’s house in the presence of the local ward councillor, Ba-Phalaborwa Municipality representatives, Bora Mining Service’s representative and family members.
